

Anni, how are you today? Baby I miss you ❤️😘😘😘

Sorry I left Starbucks late today. After 12:00 p.m. Pacific Time, which was when I was supposed to leave, I had to call Starbucks tech support in the back office to reset my password since I was having trouble logging into Starbucks' system. After I reset my password, I was talking to my manager. As a result, I left Starbucks late today.

My family is going to San Diego at the end of this year for vacation. We will arrive in San Diego on 12/18/2026 and leave on 12/25/2026. I know leaving on the day of Christmas is kind of weird, but apparently we will get a cheaper Airbnb rate this way. It is kind of depressing to think about it, since if you don't talk to me by the end of this year and I don't get a job in Philly by then, this will be the last vacation I will ever have before I die. I have never been to Europe or Japan, and I have never been to most parts of the United States. The original plan was that I would be stuck here in the Bay Area for 8th grade and high school, get stuck in Rochester for college, and after I graduate, I would have a good enough income to travel to the places I have always wanted to go. Well, things did not go according to plan.

Oh yeah, by the way, after learning you have Celiac Disease, I crossed out Japan from the places I want to go, since, from my understanding, Japan's restaurant industry isn't really friendly to people with Celiac Disease. Therefore, until we can find a way to plan around it, I won't want to go to Japan anymore.

That's all for today's diary entry. Anni, I love you ❤️😘😘😘