

I wanted to start by saying how much I miss you, but I think that's unnecessary since I think you know already❤️

I just finished a temp contract gig at Integreon as a Cyber Incident Document Reviewer. I thought it was something cybersecurity-related that I could use to pad my resume, but it wasn't. Well, at least I got paid. I added it to my LinkedIn page, but I do not think it is worth putting on my resume.

I just finished a call with a very generous person today. He was working at Starbucks as a Shift Manager from 2018 to 2020. He said he knows the IT director of the department I applied to, and he is willing to forward my resume to her. Hopefully, I will get an interview. This is a hybrid job located in the suburbs of Philly, and I checked that if I live in Philly, it seems like there is a train I can use for commuting to the job. Finding a job in Philly has been hard. I really hope I will be able to get the job.

I really appreciate you being supportive. You are the best thing in my life❤️
